typed on the document. The completed acknowledgment form clearly indicates which notarial act has been performed and provides information concerning the execution of the document to anyone who views the document at a later date.

Notarization via video-conference is prohibited. The signer is not considered to have “personally appeared” before the notary, as required by statute. Additionally, a Connecticut notary does not have the authority to notarize within the state when the signer is out of state.

Commissioners of the superior court from states other than Connecticut are not given full faith and credit in regard to acknowledgements. Therefore, in order to take acknowledgements in Connecticut, a commissioner of the superior court from another state must become a notary public in Connecticut.

Please note that when signing the acknowledgment, a notary should print his or her name under the signature. This will assist the Secretary of the State’s office in verifying the notary for authentication and apostille purposes.
